This is just a short testimonial regarding the Man3000 system installed.

After the system was installed we are able to manage the telephone calls made by users and to add and amend the budgets of personnel with ease.

It also gives use the reporting facility with scheduled reports that are sent out automatically on a monthly basis without user intervention which make the task so simple.

It is a great system to have in place for managing our telephone expenditure and managing the system.

The only possible enhancement would be to have a module to add additional budget allocation for a specific month without having to just reset the existing budget.
